

SKYSCRAPER BY JAN. 1.

Office Building On South Main Street Will Be A Beauty.

TO COST NEAR $40,000.

First Four Story Office Building To Adorn the Hopson Lot.

By January 1st the new office building, on the northeastern corner of the "Hopson lot," will be completed.

It was the intention of the projectors, consisting of Messrs. R. F. Copper, Odie Davis, E. C. Radford and T.
J. McReynolds, to erect a two-story office building and the foundation had been put in when a suggestion was made that other parties be heard with the view of making the building four stories in height.

This proposition was received with favor and negotiations were at once begun, which culminated yesterday morning about 11 o'clock at a meeting at the Planters Bank and Trust Co., when Messrs. M. C. Forbes, Dr.
T. W. Blakey and the real estate firm of Wright & Johnson became members of the original company.

At the meeting Monday morning, after all minor details had been agreed upon, it was the unanimous opinion of the company that the rapid growth of the city demands an office building of at least four stories and it was agreed that the first four story building in the city should go up as soon as possible.

As the drawings and specifications of the original building will have to be laid aside the architects have been instructed to at once get busy and lay before the company plans for the semi skyscraper.

Of course it is impossible to give anything like a description of the building that is to adorn the southern end of the business section.
About all that can be said now is that it is to be built of stone and brick, with passenger and freight elevators. The four stories will be divided into offices for lawyers, physicians, insurance men or any kind of business. It will be heated by steam, have hot and cold water throughout, lighted by gas and electricity, and modern in every particular.

Everybody will be glad to learn of this manifestation of confidence by business men and capitalist in the future growth of Hopkinsville. And it is well to say in this connection that, while Hopkinsville is far in the lead of all cities of her class, and even larger, in substantial improvements and growth in population, home capital is at the bottom of it.

On The Road.

F. H. Mason, cashier for the Forbes Mfg. Co., severed his connection with that company yesterday. After several years' service he found his health failing by the close confinement and accepted a place as traveling salesman for the wholesale grocery firm of W. R. Wheeler & Co., of this city. Mr. Mason will continue to make his home here, and he has the best wishes of his many friends. He will make his first trip this week.

Entertained With Music.

Mr. H. W. Hunt, of Edgote, entertained Saturday night a few intimate friends and relatives in honor of his cousins, Misses Burbank, of Chicago, who enjoyed some rare music made on piano by Mrs. Dr.
Rellow, of Kennedy, and Miss Rollow, of Oklahoma, and on violin by Mr. Turnly Rudolph, of Clarksville.
Mrs. Jas. McKenzie and Misses Lela Pucker and Louise Burkank kindly assisted in serving refreshments.

EDITOR KENTUCKIAN:

If I may be pardoned for taxing your patience, and that of your readers, I offer a few items for your paper which comes to us three times a week like a letter from home.

Having been absent from my native State eight years, except for an occasional visit, I have not ceased to be interested in every forward movement, and they have been many, especially in Hopkinsville and Christian county.

One born in the good old State never ceases to point with pride to the fact, no matter where or how far he may roam. I find many people living here who once lived in Kentucky; some of them left the state when they were two or three years old, but they invariably claim to be Kentuckians.

During my sojourn among strangers my lot has been cast in pleasant places among good people who have invariably treated me better than I deserved. I have studiously tried, however, to guard carefully the good name given me by my parents, knowing that it is easier to keep than to get back after it has been lost.

When matters are out of joint in my town in the management of local affairs I do not fail to mention the plan followed by Hopkinsville for doing similar work.

When I wish to stimulate my church to undertake larger things in the work of the Kingdom—whether church building, giving to missions, Christian education, or whatever the work in hand—I cite them to the First Baptist church of Hopkinsville as an example of a church that does things, and it usually brings results.

We have many Kentucky people in our church. Among them is W. S.
Wilson and wife, who were raised in Owensboro. Brother Wilson was until recently president of the First National Bank here, and is now president of one of the largest coal companies in Southern Illinois. He is a deacon in the Baptist church, Superintendent of the Sunday-school and one of the finest christian gentlemen it has ever been my pleasure to be associated with. He is a nephew of Mrs. Fairleigh, of your city.

In looking over the record made by my church during the convention year just closing, I find that sixtyone have been added to the membership, bringing the total up to four hundred and eighty-one. The financial record exceeds any previous year. Harmony and good will prevail among the members, fellowship and co-operation abound.

As the time draws near for a midsummer vacation my thoughts turn towards Hopkinsville and my father's house.

Cordially,
J. A. MCCORD.
Pineknayville, Ill., July 13, 1912.

Wholesale Baptizing.

Washington, July 15.—One hundred and sixty-two delegates to the convention of the International Bible Students' association in session here were baptized here at the public bathing beach. The men in conventional bathing suits and the women in flowing black robes were dipped below the water at the rate of five a minute while a congregation sang hymns. Rev. R. A. Williams, of Pittsburg, administered the rites.

Before Railroad Commission.

R. E. Cooper, President of the Christian-Todd Telephone Company, and Ben C. Petrie, of Elkton, were before the State Railroad Commission last week. The new Wilson law requires the consent of the commission as to tolls over lines outside of cities, but the cities have the regulation of tolls inside city limits. This has already been agreed upon and the consent of the Railroad Commission may be looked for at once.

Knows A Heap.

Clarence S. Darrow, who will take the witness stand in his own behalf after all other witnesses have been examined, declared that it would require about a week for him to give his testimony.

LOCAL PARAGRAPHS.

Dr. Stone brick semi-bungalow will soon be ready for the carpenters to finish up inside. When completed it will be one of the most modern homes of the many handsome residences on South Main street.

It really did seem sizz'ing hot Saturday, but the mercury didn't get higher than 86 in the shade. It was the sudden transition from a spring temperature to midsummer that made you think it was really warmer than it was.

A new four story office building may not be called a sky-scraper, but it will do for a starter. The Hooser building, at Main and 8th streets was the first three story building erected in Hopkinsville. It will be remodeled in a few months.

LOST BY A DOT.

Telegraph Company Was The Cause Of A Broken Engagement.

New York.—An unusual and yet easily explainable error in the transmission of a telegraph message has resulted in a claim for damages against one of the telegraph companies for breaking an engagement that was soon to end in marriage.
The company is charged with alienating the young woman's affections.
The message was sent by the young man, read as follows:

"I love you forever." When it was delivered to the addressee it read: "I leave you forever."

Under the circumstances there was nothing for her to do but send back the young man's gifts, his engagement ring and all his letters, and before the sender of the message could communicate with her she had accepted another offer of marriage.
Hence the claim for damages.

The company's defense is that the mistake was not due to negligence, but that the Morse spelling for "love" and "leave" is so much alike that trouble on the wires caused the error. The word "love" has two dots for the letter "o" and "leave" has a dot for "e" and a dot and a dash for "a".

came home minus his moustache she felt so sorry for him that she kissed

SCREEN THEM.

Order Issued By City Board of Health—Violators Will Be Fined In Court.

At a called meeting of the City Board of Health, the following resolution was adopted:

"Whereas, the custom of exposing for sale vegetables, meat, fruit and other eatables for sale in front of stores, meat shops, etc., without being covered or screened, is unsanitary and a menace to health.

Therefore, be it resolved by the Board that all such eatables exposed for sale shall be screened or covered over to protect them from flies, etc., this ruling to go into effect in 10 days.

This ruling having passed the Health Board, under the state law it becomes effective, and any infringement upon such ruling is subject to a fine."

a finish in these days of unparalleled activity by the people of Hopkinsville. Last night was the time fixed for their getting together and perfecting an auxiliary association.

Barn, Planer and Lumber Con-

Former Sheriff Lem R. Davis, of near Crofton, lost a lot of lumber by fire last Thursday night. The lumber was stacked in a barn, where he had been operating a planer in dressing it ready for the market, and lumber, planer and barn were consumed, causing a loss of about $1-500. He had no insurance. The flames were discovered about eleven o'clock at night and the origin is un-

Off For Vacation.

Rev. Geo. C. Abblitt held his last service Sunday morning until he returns from his vacation. He left this morning for Louisville, where he will spend a few days.

PURELY PERSONAL.

John H. Bell is spending the week at Tate Springs.

Mrs. R. H. DeTreville, of Birmingham, Ala., is visiting Miss Jennie Glass.

Mrs. A. G. Chapman will leave today for Longview, Texas, for an extended visit.

Misses Kathleen Carothers, Willie Rascoe and Louise Moore will go to Dawson tomorrow.

W. M. Bradshaw has accepted a position in Paducah and will leave this week for that city.

Mrs. W. H. Olive returned Saturday to her home in Louisville, after a visit to friends in the city.

Misses Ethel Bridges, of Springfield, Tenn., is the guest of Mrs. E.
H. McMurry, on Walnut street.

Misses Agnes Flack and Mary and Nell Tandy will go to Middlesboro tomorrow to visit Mrs. R. J. Johnson.

Mrs. Arthur Wolfe, of Illinois, arrived Sunday for a visit to the family of Mr. R. N. Wolfe, near the city.

Mr. and Mrs. George Street, of Elkton, were in the city yesterday on their way to Dawson Springs for a two weeks' rest.

Mrs. Lloyd W. Whitlow, of Guthrie, who had been visiting in Metropolis, Ill., passed through the city Saturday on her way home.

Mrs. Clifton Calhoun and children, of Birmingham, Ala., who spent several weeks with the family of Mr. John R. Dickerson, near Bennettstown, have returned home.

Mr. Ross A. Rogers, a well known millwright of Hopkinsville, is now with the Trenton Mills as office man and bookkeeper, taking the place of Mr.
Clyde Hill, who will go to California to reside.—Todd County Progress.

Mr. Chas. W. Moss, of El Paso, Tex., formerly of Clinton, Ky., will be married at Paducah, Ky., July 31, to Miss Henrietta Hatfield, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Hatfield. Mr. Moss is a brother-in-law of Mrs. W. Ray Moss, of this city.

DEATH FOR TALIAFERRO

Negro Who Attempted Assault
On Mrs. Robinson Must Die.

JURY ACTS PROMPTLY.

Defendant Positively Identified By His Victim On the Stand.

The death sentence was returned Saturday at Elkton in the trial of Isom Taliaferro, colored, charged with attempting a criminal assault upon Mrs. Lulu Robertson, wife of a prominent citizen of the Fairview vicinity, April 3. The jury was out only twenty-five minutes. Mrs.
Robertson went on the stand and positively identified the negro as the one who came to her home while she was alone and slipped in and seized her and choked her. Before he accomplished his purpose he was frightened away by the approach of one of the men on the place.

The attempted assault created intense excitement at the time and the negro would certainly have been lynched, had officers not spirited him through the country to Elkton after arresting him and from there taking him to Bowling Green, where he has been in jail until carried back to Elkton for trial. The negro is about 25. Mrs. Robertson is about 23.

RESIGNED PASTORATE.

Will Leave Pembroke to Accept Call to Adairville.

At the morning service at the Baptist church of Pembroke last Sunday morning Rev. W. E. Mitchell formally made announcement of his desire to have the pastoral relation dissolved as early as practicable. Mr.
Mitchell has accepted a call to the church at Adairville. He has served the church at Pembroke for about ten years and no minister of that church has been more successful than he and there is general regret among the membership as well as the people of Pembroke that he has decided to leave them.

Lead Pencil Danger.

In the United States the danger of putting pencils in the mouth has long been recognized, and in all the schools every precaution is taken to prevent the interchange of pencils as well as the moistening of them with the lips.
A great many children and even their elders, who ought to know better, persist in putting pencils in their mouth regardless of the risk they run.

PEMBROKE R. R. 3.

Burford Johnson, Correspondent.

Rev. H. C. Denton, of Nashville, closed the tent meeting at Fairview Sunday night, June 13, after holding it nearly three weeks. His denominational was of the Christian church.

The continued rains the past few days have thrown the farmers behind considerably with their crops.
Burford Johnson was on the sick list several days last week.

Col. Lee S. Oliver, our rural route carrier, got last Thursday, July 4, as a legal holiday. The "Colonel" richly deserves a holiday once in a while.

Mr. H. H. Fulcher spent Thursday in Hopkinsville.

Most every negro here took Fourth of July as a holiday.

Mr. and Mrs. Jas. F. Bell spent Sunday in Bella Chapel neighborhood.

Wheat threshing will probably begin here this week if the rains stay off.

Mr. H. H. Fulcher and family spent Sunday with relatives in Bella Chapel neighborhood.

Messrs. R. E. Luck and Jas. F.
Bell are jurors from here at Elkton this term of court.

Mr. Leigh Morton spent Monday in Hopkinsville.

One of the hardest rains that ever fell here was last Friday morning about 4 o'clock. Baker Leavell, who lives on West Fork creek, had about 25 acres of wheat washed away. The lightning also struck a number of trees here, but there was not any stock injured during the storm.

LORIMER'S OWN DEFENSE.

Imperiled Senator Asserts In- nocence in Long Speech.

Washington, July 11.—For the second time in 18 months William Lorimer took the floor in the senate today to defend his title to a seat in that body as the junior senator from Illinois. For three hours he in-veighed against his newspaper and political enemies; dissected influences that had been exerted against him and dealt with the attitude of President Taft and Colonel Roosevelt toward him and his associates in Illinois politics.

The senate did not force him to a conclusion of his speech. His emphatic delivery of the denunciation of his opponents weakened him physically and at 8:30 o'clock in the afternoon the senate recessed until 10 o'clock tomorrow morning when Mr. Lorimer will resume. It is expected he will conclude his defensive speech in a few hours tomorrow and before the end of the session the senate will take its final vote upon Senator Lea's resolution of expulsion.

HUGE STEEL BEAMS

To Be Used In The Construct- ion Of New McLean.

Upon College Hill things are still moving at a rapid rate and the walls are gradually going up. Thursday three huge iron beams were hauled from the I. C. depot, to be used in the new building. These beams were 42½ feet long and fully 2 feet in with.
They were perhaps the heaviest that have ever been used here. One beam was as much as four of the Forbes Mfg. Co., large horses could draw. Three of them and four other pieces of steel made a carload.

Archibald Impeachment.

Washington, July 12.—The house of representatives has adopted by a ment against Judge Robert W. Archbald, of the United States commerce court. Representative Farr, of Pennsylvania, cast the single vote against the bill of impeachment.

Mr. Farr is a life-long friend who has all along voiced confidence in Judge Archbald's integrity.

'TROUBLE WOMAN' IS DEAD.

Five Children and Many Other Relatives Met Violent Deaths.

Hawesville, Ky.—Hancock county's "trouble woman," Mrs. Nancy Newman, is dead here at the age of eighty-seven years. She was the last of thirteen brothers and sisters, whose stepfather, Captain John Sterett, was the first sheriff of the county.

Tragedies came often into Mrs.
Newman's life. Her youngest child was scalded to death in a tanning vat. The second was burned to death on the home hearth two weeks later. The third, a Confederate soldier, was murdered in a riot at Mobile, Ala. The fourth was killed two years ago when a house fell on him. The fifth met death in a runaway, five years ago.

A son-in-law and grandson met violent deaths, and the aged woman herself, two weeks ago, hobbling into the kitchen for a drink, fell and broke her leg.

A Girl's Wild Mid-Night Ride.

To warn people of a fearful forest fire in the Catskills a young girl rode horseback at midnight and saved many lives. Her deed was glorious but lives are often saved by Dr.
King's New Discovery in curing lung trouble, coughs and colds, which might have ended in consumption or pneumonia. "It cured me of a dreadful cough and lung disease," writes W. R. Patterson, Wellington, Tex., "after four in our family had died with consumption, and I gained 87 pounds." Nothing so sure and safe for all throat and lung troubles.

To Consolidate Cases.

The case involving the constitutionality of the insurance rate law in Kentucky will be consolidated with the appeal in a similar case from Kansas if the Supreme Court grants the request of Justice Thomas Bates, of Chicago, who is handling the litigation for the insurance companies.
Judge Bates has gone to Washington to file the transcript of the appeal in the Kentucky case. J. G.
Johnson, of Philadelphia, has been retained to argue the case before the Supreme Court.

A Hero in a Lighthouse.

For years J. S. Donahue, South Haven, Mich., a civil war captain, as a lighthouse keeper, averted awful wrecks, but a queer fact is, he might have been a wreck himself, if Electric Bittes had not prevented. "They cured me of kidney trouble and chills," he writes, "after I had taken other so called cures for years, without benefit and they also improved my sight. Now, at seventy, I am feeling fine." For dyspepsia, indigestion, all stomach, liver and kidney troubles, they're without equal.
Try them. Only 50 cents at all druggists.

Foss Is Easy.

Gov. Eugene Foss, of Massachusetts, has established a world's record for pardoning criminals. "During the first year of his term he opened the prison doors to seventy-seven inmates. So far this year fifty-five have been freed. In addition there has been the commutation of one death penalty to life imprisonment. He has released two prisoners who were serving life sentences for murder in the first degree and who have escaped execution by commutation and ten men who were serving life sentences for murder in the second degree.

Showman's Luck.

Frank Horte, a ranchman at Pecatello, Idaho, left $25,000 to Frank Pritchett, a circus man who saved his daughters, Nellie, aged 18, and Edith, aged 7, from a burning building a year ago. He left the girls $65,000 and appointed Pritchett their guardian at a salary of $500 a year. He has moved them to the home of his parents at Marion, Ind.

Kentucky Bar Association.

Louisville, Ky., July 12.—By a vote of 54 to 49 the Kentucky Bar Association, sitting here, tabled a resolution which would have committed that organization to extension of woman suffrage. Vigorous efforts on the part of several who favor suffrage failed to obtain reconsideration.

Clinton, Ky.—Mrs. M. C. McEroy in a letter from Clinton, writes:
"For six years, I was suffering from female troubles. I could not eat, and could not stand on my feet without suffering great pain. Three of the best doctors in the State said I was in a critical condition, and going down hill. I lost hope. After using Cardui a week, I began to improve. Now I feel better than for six years." Fifty years of success, in actual practice, is positive proof that Cardui can always be relied on for relieving female weakness and disease. Why not test it for yourself? Sold by all druggists.

DICK KNOTT

Defines The Attitude of The Evening Post.

"The Evening Post believes fully in Mr. Wilson and Mr. Roosevelt; in Mr. Bryan and Mr. Bristow; it sees the patriotic Americans moving in two grand divisions to one common triumph in November.

We march during this campaign gladly and confidently with the Democrats. The party has not rid itself of bad councilors and evil influences, but it has resisted them, and it recorded a noble triumph over them at Baltimore. The work of regeneration there begun will have to be continued under grave difficulties at Washington after March 4, but it will continue under men who make possible the nomination of Wilson.

By right of service, by right of success, the Democrats have the advantage of position. The Democratic ticket offers, as we see it, the best chance for the overthrow of a conspiracy against free institutions, against free and fair elections, at the head of which conspiracy the President of the United States has been placed.

Whether the flag is borne by Wilson or by Roosevelt, it is the flag of a free people in the hands of a safe leader.

In Democratic States follow Wilson; in Republican States follow Roosevelt; in doubtful States follow the one who is the farthest in front.

BRASSIERE IS A BLESSING

the Waist, a Highly Desirable Effect.

One doesn't have to be uncomfortable in these enlightened days of the brassieres which support the bust,
the belt, while below that may be worn hip restrainers, meaning stays, which have only a few flexible whale-bones which you'll scarcely know are present. If you don't care to buy ready-made a brassiere that is all lace insertion and satin ribbons, you may make one for yourself by using as a pattern the upper half of a tight-fitting underwaist or corset cover, the old-fashioned garment which is the ugliest thing imaginable, but which still is lurking in the wardrobe of nearly every middle-aged woman.
Make the brassiere of fine lawn, French dimity or batiste, fasten it over the shoulders with bands of hand-embroidered lingerie material and edge it all round with lace, but don't run ribbons through beading because that sort of frivolity has gone out of date and whatever happens, you don't want to be behind the times. Use satin flowers instead. Put a fine row of tiny rosebuds across one shoulder or a little cluster of forget-me-nots over the hand where the fronts close and your brassiere will look so fascinating that you'll enjoy putting it on, and incidentally, you'll wonder how you ever managed without it.

BANISHING THE YELLOW SKIN

Many Harmless Bleaches May Be Recommended to Produce the Perfect Complexion.

Very yellow necks and faces can be whitened only by the use of a decided bleach that will gradually suff-away the old skin and just as gradually disclose a fresh, new, white one.
Such preparations cannot be made very well at home. It is a dangerous procedure when attempted by experienced hands, and is best done by a professional. The frequent applications of lemon juice at night after a bath in bran-water will do wonders with moderately yellow skins.

Sometimes poor soap causes the hands to be red. It really seems as if the hands tire of one kind of soap, and rebel against its use. Immediately after bathing the hands spread thickly with cosmetic jelly or lotion.
When retiring for the night, after using the lotion, sprinkle thickly with talcum. Don't wear tight collars or tight corsets—they will always make the hands red, and the tight collars will almost ruin the skin of the neck.
When bathing use only tepid water, never hot nor cold, which invariably stimulates the blood vessels.

WHITE MOTOR COAT.

White and pale tan are immensely fashionable this season and this motor coat of soft white wool sponge (towel fabric) has a shawl collar, deep cuffs and pocket flaps of the same material in the new tan shade called burnt bread. The coat is short enough to reveal new "maggie" boots of black leather, with white kid buttoned tops.

Applying Invisible Patch.

To apply an invisible patch to woolen material, place the patch under the hole, then, with strands of wool thread raveled out from the new material or the piece you are patching with, darn the edges of the hole down to the patch, taking care to follow the weave of the material as you work. Dampen and press under a cloth on the wrong side.

Lace may be successfully patched by sewing a piece of net having the same mesh as the lace underneath the place you want to patch, and with a fine needle and thread that corresponds to the thread in the pattern of the lace work over the net the same design found in the lace. This plan is very successful in mending lace yokes and collars that have worn in small holes about the joining point, yet are too good to discard altogether.

PLUMLEY'S BIG FISH STORY

Vermont Congressman Tells How He Recovered His Gold Watch and Double Eagle.

Fish stories are rife in May, and under the seductive influence of balmy spring new versions come to light of the same old stories we have heard since boyhood days. Congressman Plumley of Vermont, of portentously serious mien, asserted to a smiling group of colleagues that a couple of seasons ago he lost his watch and a $20 gold piece overboard while waiting by a placid pool for a bite. The next year, he declared under oath, he caught a fish in that self-same pool—a "gold fish," of course—and he found within the finny armor of that Vermont bass his watch, the $20 gold piece and 30 cents accrued interest.

Fish Commissioner Bowers insists that this is another result of his labors to propagate thrifty habits among gold fish. He says that the monetary question has been so much discussed in Washington that it has affected the spawn sent out through the country, and if these fish stories continue he will not be responsible for results. As the party broke up it was agreed that Congressman Plumley deserved the plum of the fish-story season.—Joe Chapple's News Letter.

SCOTLAND'S ADVANTAGE.

At Belfast a football match was played between Ireland and Scotland. One of the home supporters, who was getting excited, kept shouting out:

"Sit on 'em, Ireland!"
An old Scotchman in the crowd, unable to stand it any longer, cried out:
"Ye might be able to sit on the leek, mon, and mebbe on the rose, but I tell ye, mon, ye canna sit on the thistle."

MATTER OVER MIND.

Little Florence had a very bad toothache and was crying softly to herself. Her aunt, who was a believer in Christian Science, went over to the little girl and said:

"If you have any faith, dear, you would have no toothache."

Florence continued to sob, but between sobs she replied:

"Well, Aunt Grace, if you had my toothache, you wouldn't have any faith."—Judge.

PRUDENCE.

"Have you ever written your memoirs?" asked the enterprising publisher. "No," replied Senator Sorghum. "And I'm not going to write them. When a man interviews himself there is no chance for him to cover a mistake by saying he was misquoted."

WHAT SHE WANTED.

What better proof can be had?

Mrs. J. E. O'Daniel, 603 O'Neal street, Hopkinsville, Ky., says: "I can recommend Doan's Kidney Pills for they have done me a great deal of good, whenever I have had occasion to use them. For some time I had suffered from pains in my back and sides and other troubles, arising from weak kidneys. Seeing Doan's Kidney Pills highly recommended in the papers, I got a box and used them as directed. They quickly cured me and I know they are the best kidney remedy to be had. I always advise friends and acquaintances to give them a trial."

Roasted Victim Alive.

An almost unbelievably cruel happening has come to light at Hiroshima, Japan. There a man and his wife have been arrested for willfully cremating a live man. The prisoners were in charge of a crematorium, and while at work a faint voice coming out of a coffin begged for fresh air. The couple took no notice, however, and proceeded to apply fire, roasting the man alive.

Despair.

Grace Is Better.

Atlanta, Ga., July 12.—Eugene H. Grace, who lies helpless in the home of his mother, paralyzed by a bullet, which he declares his wife, Daisy Grace, fired into his spine while he lay asleep in their home, has declared that if it costs him his life he will go on the stand when his wife is brought to trial July 22, in an effort to prove her guilt, and to put her behind the bars for a long prison sentence. "After that," declares Grace, "I will divorce her, so that she may never again call herself by the name of Grace. These things I will do; or die trying."

Miss Harrill's Quest

By Virginia Blair

(Copyright, 1912, by Associated Literary Press.)

Miss Harrill, whose life during nine months of the year was spent in a New York apartment, loved during her summer holidays to come close to the simpler forms of living. And, above all, she liked to watch Mary Dean get dinner in the old farmhouse kitchen, where the sun made a square of golden light on the stone floor beneath the west window, and where the fragrance of delectable things came from the pots boiling and bubbling on the wide stove.

And Mary liked to have Miss Harrill in the big chair by the west window, an incongruous figure in her modish linen gown and exquisitely dressed hair. But Miss Harrill had a way of getting at the heart of things, and Mary, who had lived so long with the two old people that her youth seemed dropping from her, felt that through the keen eyes of Miss Harrill she could see a new heaven and a new earth.

"Do you believe in dreams?" was Mary's question as she rolled out the crust for a chicken pie.

"In some dreams," said Miss Harrill with her quick smile. "Which kind do you mean, Mary? Waking ones or sleeping ones?"

"I dreamed last night," said Mary slowly, "that a man I cared for came to me in a phantom ship without a crew. And as I watched the ship rose from the waves and soared in the air, and the face of the man I care for looked down at me from the sky."

Miss Harrill, rocking gently, waited for what she knew would come.

"Do you think it means that—he is dead?"

The older woman shook her head. "I am afraid I can't tell you what it means. But you can tell me how long it is since you cared."

Mary flushed. "I don't mind," she said. "We were engaged. He was the son of the old people here. I had worked for them since my mother's death. And when he fell in love with me I thought it would be perfect to stay here—as a daughter."

"But the old man didn't think so," she went on, without bitterness. "He looked higher for his son. And when the boy went away because I would not marry him unless his people were willing I was sent away, too. But they couldn't get along without me, and so I came back. But Jim was gone. He couldn't forgive me because I wouldn't marry him without their consent, and the old man would not forgive him because he would not marry the daughter of a neighbor who had been selected for him."

"I've lived here since," Mary went on gently, "and I have hoped that he would come back. The old people are good to me, and I owe them a great deal for their kindness to me when I was an orphan child."

"But you have paid your debt," said Miss Harrill decidedly. "If Jim comes back, you can get married and live happily ever after."

Mary shook her head. "I couldn't marry Jim unless his father said 'yes.'"

Miss Harrill rose and shook out the folds of her gown. "If Jim comes you shall marry him. Don't be silly, Mary. You have done more for the old folks than they have done for you. You have your own life to live."

"Wouldn't it be selfish?" Mary asked.

"Selfish?" Miss Harrill laughed delightedly. "My dear child, do you know what a wonder you are in this workaday world? In the cities men fight for happiness, and out here you let it slip by you without a struggle."

"If Jim would only come back," said Mary wistfully, "I wouldn't need anything else to make me happy."

Miss Harrill, pondering on that statement, felt herself moved, to play Fate in the life of this pretty girl, who was losing youth and joy because of the selfish whim of an old man. She realized that she would have to do something for Mary.

of aluminum and light wire and canvas, which looked like a gigantic dragon-fly.

"What is it?" she inquired.

"An airship," said the man. "It's a water ship, too. Swims the water like a duck, and rises like a gull."

Miss Harrill, thinking of Mary's dream, asked an eager question.

"Have you ever been up in it?"

"Yes," said the man. "Once, and I was nearly killed. I wasn't used to the mechanism, and I landed up side down in the water."

"Did you think of any one as you came down?"

The man looked up quickly. "What makes you ask that?" he demanded.

"Well," Miss Harrill said slowly, "I know a girl who dreamed that a man came to her over the water in a flying ship, and as she watched, it rose in the air, and his eyes looked down at her."

The man leaned forward and spoke breathlessly: "What was the girl's name?"

"The girl's name," said Miss Harrill, softly, "was Mary—Mary Dean."

She saw the softened look that came over the grim face.

"Tell me," she said, eagerly, "are you married, Jim Babcock?"

"No," he said, "there's only one woman in the world for me, and that's Mary Dean."

"Then go to her and tell her."

"She doesn't love me," he said.

Then he stopped and looked at the stylish woman before him.

"Who are you?" he asked, almost roughly. "Have you any message for me from Mary Dean?"

"No," she said gently, "but I know her. Every summer I have been at the old farmhouse for the three months. And I have seen the girl who makes it a place of rest and comfort for two old people. And I have seen the sadness in her eyes, and this year more than ever I began to see how youth and joy are passing her by. And the other day, for the first time, she revealed to me that only one man could bring brightness to her eyes, and happiness to her heart—and that man is—you."

She saw a light leap into the man's eyes, but his tone was surly as he demanded: "How did you find me?"

"I am rich," she said lightly. "I gave a detective certain clues. It wasn't hard—and then I came to see for myself."

"And now that you have come," he said defiantly, "what do you think of me?"

"I like you," she said frankly. "In spite of your rough manner, I shouldn't forgive your rudeness if I didn't know that you've been hurt, and that your heart is sore." She held out her hand to him.

"Isn't that true?" she asked softly. His chest heaved. "How do you know?"

"Because I, too, have suffered," said Miss Harrill with a quick little catch of her breath. "Long years ago the man I loved—went away, and he never came back."

The man stammered for words of comfort, said: "Perhaps he will yet."

"He cannot," said Miss Harrill, and he saw how white she was and shaken. "He died—without forgiving me."

The man opposite her went white, too, at that. "Let me go to her," he cried. "Let me go to Mary."

The next year Miss Harrill, rocking in the big chair by the sunlit window watching Mary shell peas for the day's dinner, asked shyly:

"Do you believe in dreams, Mary?"

The young wife looked up. "If I hadn't told you mine," she said, radiantly, "I should still be longing for Jim and he would be longing for me, and our hearts would be breaking."

QUEER BATTLES IN HISTORY

Monterey Was Fought Indoors and in the Dutch Wars One Encounter Occurred Underground.

It needed only a war wherein aeroplanes were used to complete the list of queer battles.

At the battle of Monterey, in the Mexican war, our troops were able to command the streets of the city with their artillery, but they experienced much difficulty in driving the Mexicans from their houses. Accordingly, as the city was built of stone or adobe, the American broke through the walls from one house to another, fighting and driving out the enemy as they proceeded. Thus, it appears, the battle of Monterey was largely fought indoors.

In the time of William the Silent, when the Netherlands were fighting the Spaniards, a number of Spanish vessels became frozen in on the Zuyder Zee. Out came the Dutch on horseback on the ice to attack the Spaniards. This is probably the only battle of record wherein cavalry was employed directly against a naval force.

There have been battles fought underground. Chiefest of these was the fierce encounter pertaining to the siege of Haarlem in the Dutch wars. The Spaniards mined and the Dutch countermined with equal industry, and below the ground a terrific conflict ensued. When, after the Commune, the Versailles troops took Paris, they chased certain of the Communist forces to the great sewers of the French capital, and in these more than one sanguinary battle occurred.

Area Needed for Population.

CREAM OF NEWS COMPILED AND COLLECTED FROM ALL SOURCES

Senator Wm. Lorimer, of Illinois, who entered the Senate June 18, 1909, was unseated Saturday by a vote of 55 to 28, both Kentucky Senators voting with the minority. The charge was securing his election by "corrupt methods and practices." This was his second trial. At the first trial he retained his seat by a close vote. He was a Republican and was elected with the aid of 53 Democratic votes.

He again carried George Stumph as a passenger on one of the flights. Mr. Thompson will remain here until after the meet next week and will try out the larger machine.

Died of Pellagra.

Dollie Newton, a colored woman of Gainesville, died Sunday of pellagra, aged 28 years. She had been ill for about three weeks. This is the first fatal case of pellagra reported in the county, outside of some asylum cases.

Dropped By Tie Vote.

After hours of heated discussion the Kentucky Bar Association at its final session tied on the vote as to whether the whole question of woman suffrage should be dropped, and President John Bryce Boskin cast the deciding vote that it should.

HOPKINSVILLE LEADER

Dual Telephone Systems Being Abolished in the Middle West.

The Wall Street Journal expresses the opinion that within a comparatively short time the dual telephone system will be a thing of the past in the Central West. Frank A. Davis, representative of J. P. Morgan & Co., in the telephone companies of Ohio controlled by that firm, appeared before the Public Service Commission of Ohio to discuss plans for the consolidation of these companies with those in the same territory owned by subsidiaries of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company.

Plans include the organization of new companies for Columbus, Cleveland, Toledo and Dayton to take over existing plants on appraised valuations. Men prominent in the business affairs of the cities in which the companies will operate are to be on the boards of directors and each company is to have a local manager, so that each city will have in effect a local company. Already in a number of the smaller cities of Ohio competing plants have been consolidated along similar lines.

A number of consolidations of Bell and independent exchanges in Indiana has been made along these same lines in the last few months and in Michigan a similar course has been followed.

In Kentucky the question of the abolition of the dual telephone service also has come up in the last three months. Kentucky has a large number of competing exchanges and competition has been the cause of large losses to both sides in the last five years, it is said.

The Christian-Todd Telephone Company, with a capitalization of $1,000,000 has just been formed at Hopkinsville to take over the exchanges of the independent telephone companies and those of the Cumberland Telephone and Telegraph Company operating in Todd and Christian counties. The competing exchanges will be consolidated and will be operated through one company. Members of the board of directors are divided between the independent and the Cumberland interests and an independent representative has been selected as president of the new company.

This is the first in a series of consolidations to be made, which it is expected eventually will make a single telephone system throughout Kentucky. All the exchanges will be connected with the toll lines of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company.

THE HOTTEST

Day of the Summer Was Last Sunday.

Last Sunday the mercury in the tube made an ascension for the century mark, but only reached the 97th degree, thus scoring a record for altitude this summer. People thought it "awfully hot" Saturday, but 96 degrees was the maximum. Nobody had little enough philosophy to complain but were really grateful to say, "This is just what is needed."

Don't buy a range from a peddler when you can get a far better one at home for $10.00 less money.

A Mistake.

In our issue of the 11th instant we stated that Matt F. Winfree lost two mules by being struck by lightning on the 8th of this month, and also that he lost two mules the same way a few weeks before. The statement was partly not true. Mr. Winfree was in the office Saturday and said that he had been unfortunate enough in losing the last named animals, but as to the first two, we had been misinformed.

SLIPPERS ARE OF ALL KINDS

Either For Service or for Appearance, There Are Any Number of Designs to Choose.

Slippers in rich shades of dark red, blue and violet combined with gold and silver are worn with gowns introducing those tones.

These metal brocades can trace their popularity to the rich oriental effects introduced by the evening gowns. The slippers of paler tints in kid and satin are not considered "good style" for the present in Paris.

The sandal slipper is generally well liked. With four or five shapes ornamented with cut steel buckles, richly beaded, embroidered or jeweled, they fittingly dress the feet for formal occasions.

A number of these have elastic going at the sides, causing them to fit snugly. Many of these appear in the popular combination of black and white.

Another recent development in the world of fashion is the wearing of black patent leather slippers with white hosiery.

Tan-colored leathers are the correct thing for street wear. They harmonize with the tans and browns that are the popular colors for the tailored suit.

Slippers for less formal wear feature the military heel in preference to the Louis Quinze.

SILVER AND VELVET

This model is of silver with odd revers-collars of liberty or velvet of a darker shade, which is finished at the bottom with a large motif of heavy silk embroidery. The sleeves are finished with cuffs made to correspond. The chemise and undersleeves are of tucked white tulle or muslin finished with little ruffles of the same. The girle is of the liberty.

SMARTENS UP OLD WAISTS

Little Bolers of Embroidery in the Latest Fashion, Surely Will Work Wonders.

Some of the new dress garnitures are really net boleros, resplendent with jewels, spangles and beads. They are so elaborate as to suggest the glitter of the stage dancer, but are not overgenerous when worn with the dark gown of simple lines. A good device in making over the last year's dress is to use the little bolero of embroidery. It will make an old waist look very smart. Oriental embroideries may be used in this way to good advantage.

The most economical and satisfactory way of obtaining a hand-embroidered shirt waist is to purchase a ready-made waist with machine embroidered design, and work over the embroidery by hand, thus saving stamping, padding and making the waist. A blouse embroidered in this way is just as truly hand embroidered, with the added advantage of being quickly and accurately done.

Cult of Gathers.

In many of the little lingerie dresses a slight fulness is distributed in gathers about a waistline that has again shifted to about its normal position. These gathers, however, are only possible for slim figures. They are flattened into tucks for more portly forms. An attractive yoke is made by shirring this fulness over cords, but let the one with the least tendency to plumpness beware of this effect if any tidiness of figure is prized. The horizontal lines of these cords about the hips have a directly opposite effect from the long, vertical lines on which everything has been planned for some seasons past—so there is a discount on one's height. Naturally, any fabric intended for shirring over cord must be of a decidedly diaphanous nature. Where a second material is used for trimming, chiffon cloth is found very successful, because this season it can be used with almost every sheer textile that is used for summer frocks. Then, too, it comes in almost every possible shade of all colors. As another qualification in its favor it has just sufficient resiliency of texture to keep it from getting a flattened out, crushed look after being worn a few times.

Water on the Face.

Wash your face, if you do so daily on the face, will soon age you and make the skin coarse and discolored. Distilled water if used only on the face is not very expensive, as you need only dampen a corner of the towel with it, to wipe the face in the morning, if the skin has been cleansed with the cleansing cream at night.

My Son's Wife

Somewhere in this teeming world there dwells a little girl who some day will be my son's wife. Perchance, indeed, she is but numbered among the potentialities; in the land of the unborn she may be shyly lingering. For the prospective bridegroom, albeit he fills his mother's heart, exists only in miniature. His joyous run is perilous and uncertain. The little linen suits he wears call forth amazed comment at their maturity. Nathless, two years is no unflitting interval 'twixt spouses. My son's wife may well be a fact accomplished. It is as a babe, a newborn babe lying still in a cradle, that I picture her.

And what is she like, this little girl, I wonder; this little girl who means so much to him; so dear to me? Does she lie there plump or puny, brown or lily-fair, serene or wailing? And the cot she lies in, is it lace-bedecked, beribboned, hung with curtains of fair white dimity? Or stands it bare and rudely fashioned of the twopenny banana box?

But she she pauper or princess, I will not cavil. In memory of that other babe born in the stable, that other babe worshiped of princes, I welcome the daughter-in-law of the palace, of the barn.

Yet these things are but trifles. I, too, am the worldly mother. For, princess or pauper, I would have her forebears people of honor, of refinement. I would have this, although I know that each new generation brings a new opportunity. Humanity is a compound and not a mixture. The elements fused together yield an issue strange and unaccountable. While there is life there is surely hope! And yet—and yet—O little unknown daughter-in-law, may you have been discreet in your choice of parents! May you, at least, have found a mother who loves you; indeed, it is the common, foolish wont of mothers. May you have found a father who is a gentleman to you, whatever he be called otherwise!

But the little girl in her cradle has already arranged her past. Blameless or sinful, it is already there. What use is it for me to speculate? What use is it for me to think of her at all? I trow she never thinks of me. She never thinks of her possessions that I guard so carefully; the silver tea service at the bank in its soft tissue wrappings; the family's sole diamond ring. She does not think of such things; she does not care. Yet could I show them to her, she would grieve joyously. In her baby eyes their shine and sparkle would seem fair.

And perchance when she doth realize her treasures she will no longer prize them. For my son's wife may be an artist, deeming crude valuables distinctive of the loathed Philistine; or a learned lady despising gauds and haubles; or a little socialist, happily certain that in universal earthenware lies the cure of human ill. Yes; methinks my son's wife will be a socialist. Daughter-in-law, I will respect your scruples; I will admire your noble discontent; you shall melt the silver tea service; you shall sell it, and print therefrom pamphlets, many pamphlets, to reform the wicked plutocrat.

But although my son's wife may deem silver teapots worthless, although she may consider pearls more fitly cast before swine, yet there is one possession I am guarding that she will hold very precious, one belonging that awaits her for which she will surely care.

Then, it is of this that I shall tell her, this one thing of importance. I prate of silver services when I should describe my son. Tall I see him for his years, his two years, as he plays on the sward before me; tall and exceedingly sturdy. His eyes are brown, but his hair curls goldenly. (Little girl, are you not glad with me that his hair curls goldenly?) Strong he is, and merry. When he hurts himself he cries but seldom. Rarely is he vexed. What else is there to tell about him? Ah, see, he runs towards me with his arms outstretched.

But perchance my unknown daughter-in-law will feel that filial piety concerns her not. Perchance she may resent it. And yet it is a desirable quality. All the things that I have told her are desirable qualities; they should tend to make a happy wife. For two years this son hath brought his mother more happiness than she had ever known. Is it not, then, probable that he will one day bring joy unto his wife? Little daughter-in-law, I pray that my son may give to you as great a peace, as great a comfort as he hath given me. I pray, although in truth the prayer is more for my son's sake than for yours, since you are yet a stranger to me—Oh, may my son come unto his wife as unspotted as he came to me. May he be pure in heart when he enters upon his second birth, the birth of the new dual life! May he always, and whatever befall him, never cease in seeing God! And so farewell, little girl. I shall well, for in the surging crowd I cannot find you; I cannot hear your voice; I do not know your face. To all my eager questioning, to all my hopes, my prayers, my fears, there is but one answer—silence.

Meanwhile, I have my son—Mrs. Zangwill in Westminster Ga.

Not An Experiment.

Paint Lick, Ky.—Mrs. Mary Freeman, of this place, says: "Before I commenced to take Cardui, I suffered so much from womanly troubles. I was so weak that I was down on my back nearly all the time. Cardui has done me more good than any medicine I ever took in my life. I can't possibly praise it too highly." You need not be afraid to take Cardui. It is no new experiment. For fifty years it has been found to relieve headache, backache, and similar womanly troubles. Composed of gentle-acting herb ingredients, Cardui builds up the strength, preventing much unnecessary pain. Try it for your troubles today.

Out of a Clear Sky

"Maria said," related Borker, "that we wouldn't be able to keep her. That was the only trouble in my mind, too. She was perfect."

"I watched her removing the dinner dishes. Her movements were swift and accurate."

"I suggested that we pay her the highest wages, for the coffee had been perfect and the biscuits a delightful brown. Maria replied that that would be the best way in the world to lose her. 'The more you pay her,' she explained, 'the better she will dress, and so the greater will be the risk.'"

"I was silenced. I sat at the table in a bitter mood. Here was a cook held dazzlingly before me for a moment, only to be snatched away when she had grown absolutely necessary. She was too pretty to last. I tried, however, to be optimistic."

"'Maria,' I suggested, 'perhaps she has had a disappointment. Perhaps all her hopes have been blighted and she will never love again! Or perhaps he died for something!'"

"'No,' said Maria. She added: 'There are three or four young men on the premises.'"

"'We'll look for apartments elsewhere,' I cried."

"'Why?' gasped Maria."

"'To escape the male quartet,' I explained."

"'However, I came to the conclusion that flats and apartments would not do at all. What we wanted was a house with a yard; a big yard with a house away at the back. Maria agreed with me.'"

"Then we began to consider the suburbs, with a view of getting a place as secluded as possible wherewith to retire with our cook. But, like an inspiration, I suddenly hit upon the island! The very thing!"

"The island is a very secluded place fifty miles out in Lake Superior. It is very difficult to approach on account of the shoals. If I took Maria and my delightful cook out there we could live bountifully on provisions taken from the mainland and the opportunity would be splendid for the working up of my treatise on moral philosophy."

"Maria said the plan was good. The cook was delighted with the novelty of it. The details were soon arranged."

"We had a delightful voyage and landed upon the island in safety, with our ample stock of provisions, all in good condition."

"We are cut off from all communication by mail!" I chuckled to Maria. "No young man can even write to her! So we need have no fear of a proposal by letter."

"It's a good thing there is no wireless station here," mused Maria.

"Isn't it?" I cried. "I don't suppose there is any danger of telepathy or soul kissing!"

"We shall have to take our chances," sighed Maria.

"The first day for lunch we had chicken with cream gravy, browned biscuit and delicious coffee."

"I arose the next morning, happy as a lark. I met Maria and Gwendoline, the cook, strolling along the beach, full of interest in the aquatic animals and birds, especially the birds. The flight of the crane, of the gull and of the wild duck I pointed out to them and made exhaustive comparisons, which would enable them to distinguish each."

"'Oh! look, Mr. Borker!' cried Gwendoline, lifting her pretty arm pointing enthusiastically. 'What kind of a bird is that?'"

"I hesitated: 'It is neither a duck nor a crane,' I decided. 'It's an airship!'"

"We were delighted to behold for the first time an exhibition of man's conquest of the air. The airship floated around us, coming lower and lower. Presently a begoggled creature appeared and a voice called, 'Hello!'"

"'Hello!' cried Maria and Gwendoline with one voice."

"The airship man was proceeding on his way when he sighted Gwendoline! The airship quivered, then it slowly descended to the ground."

"'Good morning,' said the man with the goggles."

"'I hope the air currents are propitious this morning,' said I."

"'Aren't you afraid to go up in the air like that?' cooed Gwendoline, admiringly."

"The aeronaut stepped out of his ship and removed his goggles. He was blond, bilthe and handsome."

"He looked at Gwendoline and she looked at him."

"Maria turned to me and whispered sadly: 'We may as well pack up and go back home.'—Chicago Daily News."

Best of All Physicians.

There is no physician like cheerful thought for dissipating the fogs of the body; there is no comfort to compare with good will for dispersing the shadows of grief and sorrow. To live continually in thoughts of ill-will, cynicism, suspicion and envy, is to be confined in a self-made prison hole. But to think well of all, to be cheerful with all, to patiently learn to find the good in all—such unselfish thoughts are the very portals of heaven; and to dwell day by day in thoughts of peace toward every creature will bring abounding peace to the possessor.—James Allen.

THREE THINGS YOU WILL NEED...

"Kentuckian"

A virile, new newspaper with the interest of the entire community at heart. Issues of the day are handled without fear or favor. You will find in this paper an up-to-date department for each member of the family. Clean, honest, straightforward—it is a paper your family should not be without.

Second—

Technical World Magazine

is the one magazine that not only entertains in a fascinating manner, but which also instructs. It is the magazine for the busy business man, or for the person who wants to fill away a summer's afternoon, and be agreeably informed at the same time. It is profusely illustrated, and tells in a simple and interesting way of the discoveries of scientists, the achievements of inventors, the feats of engineers and explorers, and the opening of every new field of human endeavor. What Jack London says: "I have just chanced upon my first copy of TECHNICAL WORLD MAGAZINE. There isn't anything like it. I want more, and I cannot wait for there to come, so I am sending you herewith check for which please enter my subscription and send me immediately the last two years' back numbers."

Third—

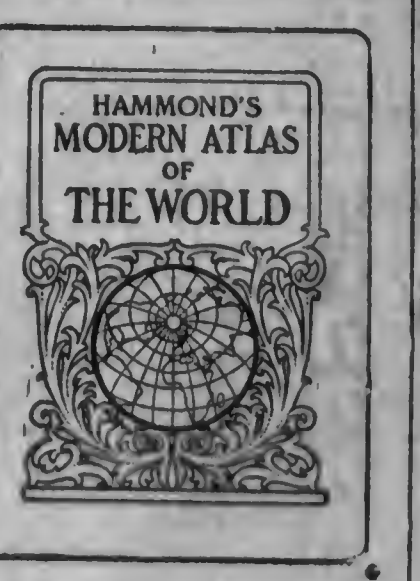

A Fine Atlas

This one is just off the press. This is the year to obtain a new atlas. The 1910 Census has just been completed, this atlas contains the official figures, 123 pages of 8 color maps brought right down to date—every map giving the results of the most recent surveys. All railroads are shown and named and maps of all large cities are included. There are 21 double page maps showing in detail portions of the U. S. and Canada. Dimensions 10" x 13". Bound in stiff linen—Silver Leaf Title—printed on heavy plate paper. Sells regularly for $3.00. A splendid gift.

ALL THREE Only $3.80

Special arrangement with Technical World Magazine and the publishers of this Atlas makes this offer possible. But it is very strictly limited. You must act immediately.

COD INDUSTRY IS GROWING.
Newfoundland Has Wonderful Asset and Will Be Great Fish Depot of World.

The cod is probably the most prolific of all sea fish, though its habitat does not extend over as large an area as other species, says the Wide World. The cod is only found in northern waters, and will live and thrive only in certain temperatures.
Some day, owing to the wonderful asset which Newfoundland possesses in her cod fishery, she is destined to be the great fish depot of the world.
It is not alone on the great "banks," many miles off her coasts, that cod are found in countless millions, but around the whole island—on the "ledges" and "grounds" off the capes and promontories that jut into the Atlantic, as well as on the Labrador coast, for a stretch of 1,000 miles. In these regions you require no hatcheries to aid the wonderful fecundity of nature; indeed, it is doubtful if you require any laws or regulations to protect these fisheries unless it be in the shoal waters of the bay.

Notwithstanding that for 300 years the fisheries of these waters have been prosecuted by rival fishermen of two hemispheres, the large-est catch of cod ever taken on the Newfoundland and Labrador coasts was that secured in 1909, the yield being estimated in weight at 1,800,- 000 quintals, or 201,000,000 pounds; to which may be added 200,000 quintals—the quantity locally consumed in Newfoundland during and after the fishing season.
The value of the fish alone, without any regard to the by-products—oil, roes, skin, offal, etc.—is $10,000, 000.

HOW FAST THE HORSE WENT
"Lickity Split" Said the Boy Witness and the Judge and Jury Understood.

In the Superior civil court a little chap was giving testimony in a case where an express team is alleged to have knocked down and injured a boy acquaintance of the witness. The little chap on the witness stand was asked how fast the team was going when he first noticed it. He seemed a bit puzzled, and the attorney suggested a "hearse and a fire engine as tokens of comparison. The boy said it was not going as fast as a fire engine and faster than a hearse.

The attorney ventured again to have the witness state in his opinion just how fast the team was going.

"It was going lickity split," said the youngster.

From the expression upon the faces of the judge and the members of the jury it was evident that they understood the answer of the witness thoroughly.—Boston Journal.

CRUEL REALISM.
John G. Johnson, the famous lawyer and no less famous art expert, was talking, at a dinner in Philadelphia, about some of Sargent's cruelly realistic portraits. "Sargent once painted a Philadelphia woman," Mr. Johnson said, "and when the work was finished, the lady's coachman called for it. As the coachman was studying the portrait, Sargent said to him: 'How do you like it?' The man answered thoughtfully: 'Well, sir, ye might have made it a little better-lookin', mebbe; but if ye had, ye'd have spoilt it.'"

HELPED HIM ALONG.
"How did he manage to escape from the penitentiary? I thought it was well nigh impossible."
"Well, he figured it out on scientific lines. Somebody smuggled him a pair of trunks, and after he got outside everybody thought he was running a Marathon."

DELIGHTFUL PROSPECT.
"Do you," said the counsel,
"swear that you will tell the truth, the whole truth and—"
"Oh, how lovely!" the fair witness interrupted. "Shall I be allowed to talk all the afternoon if I want to?"—Stray Stories.

COURTING DANGER.
"Who is that fellow who just now called one of our noble policeman a gendarme?"
"Why, that's a traveled person from abroad."
"Well, he'd better be careful. One of our fattest cops may resent the imputation."

"Animated Newspaper" of French Moving Picture Shows Are Popular With the Patrons.

The "animated newspaper" issued by a French firm for display in moving picture establishments is said to be the most costly newspaper issued, from the standpoint of the subscriber, as one of these reels costs many dollars. These films are very popular with a certain class of patrons of the "movies." They are edited in much the same manner as the typical newspaper. A corps of operators is kept in constant touch with many sources of news. As soon as a promising tip reaches him, the editor sends one, two or as many men as he thinks necessary for the purpose. Frequently the three films are patched together to make one complete reel. Correspondents are maintained at different points, and these are assigned by telegraph to go to certain points, where their services may be needed. Mine explosions and railroad accidents are regarded as particularly attractive features, and men are sent at once to these whenever they are reasonably accessible. Pictures of the debris and the work of removal are always objects of interest to patrons of the "movies."

Investigation Shows Communication of Tuberculosis by Use of Telephones Is Unlikely.

An investigation made in England to determine the possibility of the communication of tuberculosis through the use of telephones seems to show that such infection is practically impossible. The experiments were ordered by the postmaster general, who appointed Dr. H. Spitta of St. George's hospital, London, and bacteriologist to the king, to make the experiments.

A number of telephones, which had been in use in busy London offices for various periods, and had received no cleansing treatment other than that normally given such phones, were first tested. Washings were prepared from the mouthpieces and tests were made by the inoculation of guinea-pigs to ascertain whether tubercle bacilli were present. The mouthpieces were shown to be free from these bacilli.

TOO MUCH FOR THEM.
A northern man made a visit to the plantation of a southern colonel and was almost devoured the first night by mosquitoes. The next morning the northern man asked the colored butler about the mosquito plague. "Don't the mosquitoes bother the colonel?" he asked.
"Not much, sah," the butler replied. "The first part of the night the colonel am too drunk to feel mosquitoes, and the last part of the night they is too drunk to bother him."

Discussing the universal condemnation heaped upon Bruce Ismay secution, ending with the words:

'When a man's down his enemies stop kicking him—to let his friends begin.'"

DEPARTMENT GROCERY.

Mr. Farmer and Mrs. Housekeeper:

Did you know that we are the dividing wedge between you and high prices? We are always on the alert looking, watching and ready to take advantage of low prices, for spot cash of any commodity offered to us that you use. When we do so and affect our purchase, then of course we have to have an outlet for same.

Now, it's purely a business proposition that we put to you. If you respond liberally to our ads. when we make you close prices, it helps to turn stock quickly, consequently at very low prices and small profits.

You often wonder why it is that in the large cities they make such low prices. This is done for special sales and to move merchandise quick.

The old fashioned way was for a merchant to advertise Fire Sales or Slaughter Sales on goods bought from some firm in hard luck at 40 or 50 cents on the dollar. Now all classes of merchandise, unless it is out of date, is worth more than 40 or 50 cents on the dollar, and the people can't be fooled much longer in this way.

Ways of Merchant Saving Money On Purches.

There are numerous ways to do this. First he must know the real value of the merchandise, how it is made, and what it costs to manufacture same, then he must have ready cash; that is what all of us are struggling for. With an offer of spot cash you can generally come very near buying at cost of production. Sometimes factories like to keep their force and will sell at cost rather than close down. A live wire will always keep his eye open for such chances. What we want is business. We expect eventually to do in Hopkinsville, in the county of Christian, half a million dollars a year, with your help and your cooperation.

We expect to bring people here from all the adjoining counties to do their trading in our line, and to have them so well satisfied that they will tell all of their friends.

Let us all be boosters. Twenty-five years of buying and selling ought to mean something to us and to the people. We believe it does. Come and trade with us and get your benefit of our experience.

AFTERNOON TEA TABLE

ACCESSORIES THAT ACCOMPANY THE CHEERING CUP.

Pretty Surroundings, Easily Acquired. Add Greatly to the Pleasure of the Gatherings In Closing Hours of the Afternoon.

If you have not a regular tea table, an easy way of serving the cheering cup that never is more cheering than in the late afternoon, is to have a Japanese tea basket and keep it in an inconspicuous part of the living room, where it will be always in readiness. These baskets, according to their size, hold a service for from two to a dozen persons, and, in addition to the alcohol stove, accommodate a teapot, creamer, sugar bowl, cups, saucers and plates of Old Canton, royal medallion, Satsuma, Delft, willow or Semei and the various familiar wares made in Japan. Best of all, the thickly wadded basket makes an ideal tea cozy and one which is easily handled.

When only two persons are to be served with tea, the simplest way of making the beverage is to use a pair of tea balls. These come in solid or German silver attached to handles of celluloid, carved deerhorn or silver, and none of them are too expensive for the woman of moderate income to get along without.

For the tea table, which is kept set, always in readiness to be wheeled or carried into the living room, there are innumerable little conveniences. One of these conveniences is the airtight tea caddy of Japanese pewter, chased brass, carved bamboo, plain burnished copper or tin-lined lacquer, and another is the Lazy Susie. Lazy Susie is a tidbit tray with a nickel-plated frame and three glass shelves for holding sandwiches and cakes.

Every tea table now has its tiny jardiniere, either of hand-stamped Egyptian brass, of Japanese split bamboo or of silver deposit; its fruit dish of white lacquered perforated zinc and its bread basket of pierced silver with square, upright center handle.

The lighting of the tea table is of vast importance, for, of course, the illumination must come from above the head of the hostess, lest it cast deep shadows upon her face and make it look old and worn. From the wall near which the tea equipage usually is placed there should extend a two or three arm brass sconce with shaded candles, or a sconce with inverted incandescent lights with inner globes covered with square glass shades of an effective color. Lacking the stationary lights, it is nice to have a tall lamp of Damascus brass with matching shade or a pair of Japanese brass and copper candlesticks with copper shades done in wickerwork design.

NOVELTIES TO MARK TIME

All Sorts and Varieties of Clocks and Watches Are in Style at the Present Moment.

Father Time is no longer to pass disregarded even by the most careless of pleasure seekers, for the dial is everywhere to be found. Every woman is wearing a watch, not on the left breast of her blouse, as formerly, but on her bracelet of slender gold, wire or twisted silver, in the back of her vanity case which hangs from her chateleine and in the handle top of her umbrella.

The large clock is no longer tolerated in the drawing room or the morning room, but Father Time is in these apartments just the same, since small watches are set into the photograph frames or sterling silver or oval shape and set on hall feet; of round shape and easel type; of the Marie Antoinette order in French gilt, and of ivory-finished white celluloid on first empire lines.

On the dressing table of the mondaine one is apt to find Time in the shape of a clever little contrivance of silver gilt filigree. By touching a spring underneath this toy clock, all four sides let down, the top falls flat and on the inner side of each section is attached a fancy case for pins, a tiny puff for powder, a smelling bottle and a miniature mirror.

Neckwear Must Have Fringe.

Fringe is featured to a marked degree in some of the neckwear just imported from Paris. Most of it is in black and white, the preferred style being black fringe on a white collar or frill, although the all-black or all-white style has many advocates.

A SLIGHT DOUBT.

"Of course, you believe in the wisdom of the plain people."

"Yes," replied Farmer Cornstossel; "although the way we talk about the trusts and the middleman does make me kind o' suspect that us plain people can't brag about the way we hold our own in business transactions."

THOUGHT HE WAS FIXING PIPE.

"Consulted a physician this morning and he advised me to give up my pipe."

"Give up your pipe, eh? What did he charge you for that?"

"Ten dollars. I guess he thought for the moment he was a plumber."

A Lead Pencil Danger.
In the United States the danger of putting pencils in the mouth has long been recognized, and in all the schools every precaution is taken to prevent the interchange of pencils as well as the moistening of them with the lips. A great many children and even their elders, who ought to know better, persist in putting pencils in their mouth regardless of the risk they run.

Aid for the Invalid.
A stick of the right sort will help an invalid in many ways. It should be strong, yet light, with a stout iron hook on one end and a knob on the other. This will enable an invalid to adjust curtains, raise and lower shades and windows, push her rolling chair or move a screen, and aid herself in a variety of other ways.

A Grim Reminder.
"Doctor," said the desperate heavy-weight, "give me something to make me weigh less." "That sort of thing merely makes you dangerously ill." "I don't care if it does." "Very well. But I can't see why you should go to all that trouble merely to make labor a little lighter for your palbearers."

Defective Optimism.
Down in the Thousand Islands district there is published a paper called the Optimist. An Evanston man who was in the Optimist's office, the other day, writes to us that on one of the walls of the sanctum this notice was displayed: "No credit extended here."

Chinese Business Methods.
Most of the Chinese business houses are now owned by partnerships, and most partnerships are of a large number of persons. The Chinese who has saved $100 local currency will at once invest it in a mercantile business and become a partner.

Error Always a Harm.
To free a man from error is to give, not to take away. Knowledge that a thing is false is a truth. Error always does harm; sooner or later it will bring mischief to the man who harbors it.—Schoepfhauser.

An Aged Patient.

Mrs. Frances Pugh died at the Western Asylum Sunday. She was 86 years old and was sent here for treatment from Graves county about six years ago. Death was caused by paralysis. The remains were shipped to Mayfield yesterday.

PLAIN HATS POPULAR

With Slight Trimmings They Show Their Best in Mourning Millinery, Where Small Decorations of Crepe Are Effective.

Plain hats, simply trimmed, with a single "stick-up" of flowers, ribbon or feathers, caught the popular fancy with amazing strength and rapidity. They became so popular, in fact, that their days with fashionables are numbered. Those who are always looking for "something different" must, of necessity, insist upon something more elaborate.

This fashion shone at its best in mourning millinery where graceful, beautifully made hats of crepe depend upon small decorations, also made of crepe, to complete them. Almost all the best models in mourning hats employ nothing but crepe in their trimming. The popularity of stick-up effects gave the millinery an opportunity to copy all sorts of millinery trimmings, as wings, bows, cabochons and other ornaments, making them up of crepe folds or cords or plaitings. The exact and beautiful workmanship and the ingenious designs have resulted in the most elegant and attractive crepe hats ever shown.

The mourning hat made of silk grenadine and other special weaves of silk are covered quite smoothly and decorated with bands of crepe shaped to fit about the crown. These are also finished with a trimming made of crepe, as shown in Fig. 1. Crepe is one of the few fabrics which is equally good in the body of a hat and in its decoration. It is more used in the composition of mourning gowns and wraps than ever before. Here it is applied in shaped borders, panels and applique designs. Very rarely whole gowns are made of it, but there are numbers of beautiful blouses made all of crepe, or of crepe combined with other fabrics.

Fashion's Fancies

Checked vests are seen in tailored suits and fold back at the top in small revers.

Embossed flowers of wool and velvet are shown on taffeta scarfs and sashes.

The distinctive feature of the new lingerie gowns is the prodigal use of filet lace.

Turkish and Egyptian scarfs of weird design and wondrous colorings are popular.

Petticoats are very short now, varying from a length just below the knee to a length just escaping the top of the high buttoned street boot.

The panniers and shawls of 1830 appear with the scallops and draperies of 1860. Yet, despite the wildness in dress, so far the "silhouette" has altered but little, at least, as worn in the street.

All Day Bag

"Even though you never would dream of carrying a handbag in America, you must take one with you to Europe, where they are considerably more expensive to buy than at home, and where you will need one every time that you start for a single day's excursion," warned an experienced tourist while advising a friend about to depart for her first trip across the Atlantic. "This all day bag need not be weighty, but it must be sufficiently capacious to hold extra gloves and a handkerchief, a very slender folding comb and toothbrush, a tiny cake of soap, hand towel, self-feeding powder, put, rubber sandals, hand mirror, chiffoa veil of good size, fountain pen, notebook and needle case. With that sort of equipment a woman can keep herself looking tidy for a number of hours and she is prepared for almost any emergency likely to arise."

RED CROSS SEALS

Large Sale of Holiday Stickers Expected By Anti-Tuberculosis Workers.

Seventy-five million Red Cross Seals are now being printed for the holiday sale of these anti-tuberculosis stickers in 1912. The National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis, which in cooperation with the American Red Cross will conduct the sale, makes this announcement today and states further that the outlook this year is bright for a larger sale than ever before.

The seal this year is said to be the best of its kind that the Red Cross has ever issued. The design is in three colors, red, green and gray. A Santa Claus head in three colors is shown in the center surrounded by holly wreaths. In each corner is a small red cross. The seal bears the greeting "Merry Christmas, Happy New Year, American Cross, 1912."

The campaign for selling Red Cross Seals will be carried on in practically every state and territory in the United States, and even in Porto Rico, the Canal Zone, Hawaii and Philippine Islands. No less than 100,000 volunteer agents, including department, drug and other kind of stores, motion picture theaters, individuals, and others, will be engaged in the work. Before the sale is completed, it is expected that at least 100,000,000 seals will have been completed and distributed, besides several million posters, display cards and other forms of advertising literature.

Last year over 32,000,000 seals were sold: in 1910, over 31,000,000; in 1909, about 23,000,000; and in 1908, the first year of the sale, only 13,500,000. In all, the sale in the four years has realized nearly $1,000,000 for the anti-tuberculosis campaign, since all of the money from this movement goes for the prevention of consumption.

New York state sold the most seals in 1911, disposing of 6,356,363; Ohio came next with 3,500,480; Wisconsin third with 2,101,632. Texas

SAME OLD TICKET

Is Named By The Prohibitionists For Another Campaign.

Atlantic City, N. J., July 15.—The national prohibition convention concluded its labors here Friday night with the nomination of the party standard-bearers of four years ago—Eugene W. Chafin, of Arizona, for President, and Aaron S. Watkins, of Ohio, for vice-president. In each case the nomination was made by acclamation after a single ballot had indicated the preference of the delegates.

The convention was forced to rush its business to a conclusion as many of the delegates were leaving. Because of this the proposal to change the name of the party was not taken up. A. J. Orem, of Massachusetts, in a brief speech, promised to pledge more money to the campaign fund should the name be changed. "We should be greatly aided in carrying our banner to success if we should adopt the name 'progressive,'" he declared.

There were many shouts of protest to this, as well as to the name "conservative party," suggested by the Rev. S. H. Taft, of California.

showed the greatest percentage of gain, having increased its sale from 100,000 in 1910 to over 1,250,000 in 1911. Indiana showed the second greatest gain, with an increase from 693,756 in 1910 to 1,245,545.

Bumped Out and Killed.

Paducah, Ky., July 14.—U. S. Walston, member of the City Council, a retail grocer, vice president of the Paducah Banking Company and a public-spirited citizen, was precipitated from the automobile of Abner Smith, a real estate dealer, while returning from a good roads meeting at Heath and instantly killed.

The machine "bucked" when a bad section of the road was entered, and Mr. Watson was jarred from his seat. Being a very large man his body struck the ground with great force, causing internal injuries.

LOVE'S YOUNG DREAM

Has Sudden Awakening.—Seventeen Year Old Girl Finds She Is Not Married.

Last Tuesday Edward Atkins, who has been trying to seduce a girl in Earlington for the past several weeks, took Elizabeth Thompson, a seventeen year old girl, to Madisonville, procured the necessary license by having the girl make oath to County Court Clerk Mills that she was 21 years old and married her. The ceremony was performed by a local minister in the presence of two witnesses and the pair returned to Earlington. On Wednesday Atkins left for Owensboro, his former home, and on arriving there was arrested for bigamy. Mrs. Benton, of this city, who raised the girl, did all in her power to prevent the marriage. She overheard them making plans to elope to Springfield and in order to prevent this gave her consent for them to go to Madisonville. Atkins, who is a one legged man and well educated, seemed to have hypnotic power over the fair sex and easily persuaded this young innocent girl that life to her would be a dreary waste if she did not marry him. He doubtless made his other wife in Owensboro believe the same and several others he had on the string. A telephone message was received by Mrs. Benton from Chief of Police Lyon, of Owensboro, telling her that Lyon was under arrest and asking for advice. Mrs. Benton instructed him to be held and he will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law. The family of the girl is heart broken over the unfortunate affair.—Earlington Bee.

BARNES BRIEFS.

Report of Crop Conditions.—Other Items.

Barnes, Ky., July 15.—The wheat crop is short this year. Some farmers report that the grain is sprouting in the shock. The oat crop is almost a failure, much of it not getting high enough to cut. Clover was a failure in this section. The zero weather last winter froze it out.

Corn is looking tolerably well, considering the cultivation it has gotten.

The peach crop will be light. Few trees have any on them. The apple crop will also be small, and the prospects are that very little cider will be made. The plum crop is fairly good, while the blackberry crop is very light. The old bushes were killed by the cold weather last winter.

Mr. Kenneth Hord has returned home and is now with his father, Mr. Maryland Hord. He had been
